Belmont county Republicans.

The Republicans of Belmont county have gone into this campaign to win. They began by sending representative men for the convention, men whose only desire was for the success of the party, men who had no preferences that could stand in the way of the great end in view. It was a convention almost phenomenal in its good sense, harmony and earnestness of purpose.

The county seat question, which has worked hard to the Republican cause for two years, and by unanimous consent, the delegates, appreciating that this troublesome question had proven an element of weakness, and knowing the desire of the party to be relieved of the embarrassment, wisely ignored all sectional feeling and acted solely for the party good.

There were no personal ambitions to be satisfied at the cost of harmony and the success of the ticket. Mr. Hill was nominated for Representative against his expressed wish, and because it was felt that his name would be a tower of strength. The whole ticket is made up of good men, each of whom will put his shoulder to the wheel. It happened very fortunately that the convention could look well to the geography of the ticket while it was choosing good and strong men.

It is a ticket to win, and the good feeling which greeted it starts it well on the road to success. The Republicans of Belmont can sweep the county this time, and they begin as though they mean to do it. They will help the State ticket and the State ticket will help them.

The Figures Prove It.

This time Mr. Porter's letter to the New York Tribune deals with the woolen industry of Germany. It is a letter which every free trader ought to read, though he have to take a day off to do it. The article is packed with facts which show that the woolen industry in rapidly growing in protectionist Germany, while the same industry is on the down grade in free trade England. It also shows that under free trade the German woolen industry went from bad to worse. Here are the figures from official sources:

In 1872 the total value of the exports of woolen and worsted goods, including worsted yarn, from England, was in round figures $102,000,000; in 1881 it had declined to $125,000,000; and in 1882 to $125,000,000. In Germany the exports of yarn have been steadily increasing, especially under protection, reaching the first year of the tariff from $14,375,000 in 1870 to $25,750,000 in 1882. In 1881 the value of the exports of yarn from Germany was $25,750,000, and in 1882 it was $25,750,000. Copper, at present prices, only costs twice as much as the silver, and it is not worth it to need painting and is not worn out in twenty years, being practically indestructible, circumstances which ought to lead to its free use for roofing, the American Architect says.

Since 1804 the warhorse of "Stonewall" Jackson has been on the Morris farm near Charlotte, N. C. He has been at the request of Mrs. Jackson, sent to the Virginia Military Institute, of which General Jackson was so long a professor. The horse is at least twenty-five years old, is a dark bay, but is in good condition, and shows few marks of age.

A religious agitation of a very singular character is manifesting itself in some counties of grand duchy of Finland. The new heretics call themselves the "Pure by Excellence," and profess the superiority and supremacy of woman, who must control the world. In every house where the new doctrines are practiced a woman, elected by her companions, is invested with a sort of directing power, which gives her the right to inflict penance and even rigorous chastisement. The new heretics claim that all their disciples shall confess their sins to certain women at least once a week.

Did Not Want a Favor.

Brooklyn, Eng.

"Well, how are we to-day?" asked a bright-looking, pleasant-faced man, as he pranced lightly into the sanctum and slapped the city editor on the back. "Hard at work, I see, getting out the greatest paper on the North American Continent."

"Then arrested for drunk and disorderly and wants to leave out the item?" demanded the city editor, eyeing him suspiciously.

"Good enough!" roared the chipper man, in conviction of merit. "That's one of the best things you ever got out!"

"Must be worse than getting drunk," muttered the city editor. "Is it a little defecation, and you desire the withholding of public opinion until you can have an opportunity of being heard in the courts?"

"Better yet!" screamed the pleasant man, with a paroxysm of laughter. Let up, old fellow, you'll kill me!"

"Great Scott!" grunted the city editor. "Shouldn't wonder if he'd been committing murder and didn't want anything said about it until after the inquest. What do you want us to do?"

Nothing! I just dropped in to see the men who get out the paper that has afforded me so much pleasure for the last twenty years. I wanted to take them by the hand and tell them how much they are doing for the public and how highly I, for one, appreciate their services."

"Lathal!" murmured the city editor, hanging his head. "I must be losing my wits. I need a vacation. There's something the matter with my head. Look here, I don't want to think I am going crazy. Can't you wind this business up by asking some little favor, so I won't think I've got something of the brain?"

"Why, if you feel that way," replied the stranger, sobering down and regarding the city editor with interest. "If it will relieve your mind, you might state in your next issue that I am about to open a new paint shop on Fulton street. Would that?"

"Do you know," said the city editor as the office boy finished sweeping up the remains of the pleasant man. "Do you know, I think I must take a vacation any way. It never occurred to me, but I had all the symptoms, but I never thought of the puff racket for a moment. I'm overworked and I'm going to take a rest!"

And the city editor went gloomily to his desk and buried himself in thought. It was the first time he had ever been left on the object of a taffy call.

No Whitewashing.

Unless reports are exaggerated beyond all reason there is something wrong at our Hospital for the Insane at Weston. The State owes it to the people as well as to the unfortunate inmates of that institution to have an impartial and thorough examination of the management. No whitewashing.

An Enthusiastic Endorsement.

GORMAN, N. H., July 14, 1879. GUTT-Whoever you are, I don't know; but I thank the Lord and feel grateful to you to know that in this world of adulterated medicines there is one that is good and does me all it advertises to do, and more. Four years ago I had a slight shock of the palsy, which unnerved me to such an extent that the least exertion would make me shake like the ague. Last May I was induced to try Hop Bitters. I used one bottle, but did not see any change. Another did no change either. But when I used a third bottle, I felt every nerve. It used to take both hands to write, but now my good right hand writes this. Now, if you continue to manufacture and bottle these Bitters, you will see how you will accu-mulate an honest fortune, and confer the greatest blessing on your fellow-men that was ever conferred on mankind. THOMAS.

THE PLASURE SEASON.

Chautauque, Niagara, etc., via the Allegheny Valley Road.

Anybody May Suggest.

It will be seen by a perusal of to-day's Herald that the Republicans are not as one mass upon the question of the proposed conference. Some seem to think it would be in the interest of certain men rather than the party itself. This is doubtless a mistake.

The Republicans of this State are all leaders and are not only willing but eager and ready to engage in the battle for the detronement of Bourbonism. The Herald sees no reason, therefore, why the conference should be held and does not favor it. Such remarks, however, are not indulged in by the editor of the State Tribune and others of his ilk, are wholly uncalled for, and will do no one any good. It is pretty nearly time certain gentlemen were learning that a few federal office holders do not entirely constitute the Republican party of West Virginia, and that others are entitled to make suggestions whether it is agreeable with them or not.

A Ministers Gratitude.

Dr. HAYES—Dear Sir: I am thankful to God that I can acknowledge your treatment (Peruna) of my daughter's eye, has been successful and satisfactory. I would be glad to have the public have confidence in you. N. B.—Please make your fees in reach of poor people. Remember the tender mercies of the wicked are cruel.
